

Russians Have Clear Field in Space for Rest of 1967

By JIM STROTHMAN
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The spotlight of space glory — dominated for nearly two years by the United States — is expected to shine almost exclusively on the Soviet Union during the remainder of 1967.

to be the first manned flight of the type of space hardware the Soviet Union will use to place men on the moon.

However, the new Soviet booster is considerably less powerful than America's Saturn 5 rocket, these sources said, and does not have enough muscle to carry Russian cosmonauts to the moon directly.

that before the Apollo 1 accident some Soviet leaders had given up any chance of beating Americans to the lunar surface.

Illinois Death Toll 51; Tornadoes Hit Missouri

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A severe storm system that spawned several tornadoes swept through southern Missouri early yesterday, injured at least seven persons and caused widespread wind damage.

Country on Verge Of Railroad Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd warned yesterday that the United States is on the verge of a nationwide railroad strike which could start May 3.

Their statement came after a special mediation board in the contract dispute between six shopcraft unions and railroad management announced "a complete impasse" in negotiations.

Charles Fahy, the board chairman, said both sides now have rejected the panel's recommendation for a settlement. Earlier, the railroads agreed to accept the proposal — a six-per cent general wage increase — while the unions rejected it.

Russian Spacecraft Placed in Orbit; Another May Join

BY RAYMOND H. ANDERSON
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's new manned spacecraft, Soyuz-1 continued circling the earth last night with its lone crewman amid reports that another large spaceship would be launched early today to attempt a rendezvous in orbit.

the equator is 51 degrees, 40 minutes. Previous Soviet manned flights were carried out at an inclination of 65 degrees.

Although Komarov is alone aboard Soyuz-1 the craft is reported to have space for several cosmonauts. There is speculation here that an attempt will be made today to transfer crewmen to Soyuz-1 from another spaceship.

Soyuz-1 is assumed to have been launched from Baikonur, the Soviet Union's space center in the remote plains of Kazakhstan, 1,200 miles southwest of Moscow.

The craft was put into a low orbit with a maximum distance of 137 miles from earth and a minimum distance of 124 miles.

Democrats Fear Defeat in '68

BY JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Vietnam war shows no signs of being resolved by then, 102 Democratic members of Congress believe President Johnson will face a difficult fight for re-election in 1968.

Only 30 members of the Senate and House were willing to be recorded in an Associated Press canvass felt that the war would not damage Johnson's political position, would not be a principal campaign issue or might even help his chances.

Only four Democratic officeholders conceded the possibility of Johnson's defeat. One, who declined use of his name, suggested that the President might not run again.

As might be expected, senators and House members whose seats will be at stake next year are more optimistic about their own chances than those of the President for escaping the political penalties of a war stalemate.

Eighty-eight said the war won't affect their re-election chances and, in a few cases, might even help. But 55 said that if there is no progress toward bringing the fighting to an end they expect to encounter serious trouble in getting re-elected.

Party pessimism ran heaviest in the South where he is widely supported on the war but opposed on domestic plans. There, 82 per cent of those polled thought the President's chances of re-election would be damaged by the war.

The questions asked of 171 members — of whom 39 declined to express an opinion — were:

"If the Vietnam war shows no sign of being resolved, how will this affect your chances for re-election if you decide to run again in 1968 — or the chances of other Democratic candidates if you are not running? How space and learning how to effectively walk in space so cosmonauts can assemble on orbiting platform. These are expected to be important goals of upcoming flights this year.

The United States, meanwhile, will probably not attempt to launch any more astronauts in 1967. Defects in America's three-man Apollo moon ship — grimly revealed by the Jan. 27 accident that killed Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee — will take months to resolve.

For the actual moon trip, the United States plans to use a single Saturn 5 rocket to hurl a three-man Apollo crew to the moon, without first having to assemble a platform in earth orbit.

There is evidence the Soviet Union has on the drawing boards a rocket with a thrust greater than the Saturn 5, but not as far along in development as the big U.S. booster. America plans to launch its first Saturn 5 on an unmanned test flight this summer, perhaps as early as July or August.

The two-year lag in Soviet space flights before Friday's launching of Soyuz 1 was caused by difficulties in developing the new Soviet spaceship and the rocket that orbited it.

The U.S.S.R. had trouble with a nitrogen-oxygen breathing mixture on earlier manned Vostok and Voskhod spaceflights and is believed to have switched to an oxygen-helium mixture.

The Soviet Union also lags far behind the United States in developing sophisticated electronic systems that led to the successful rendezvous and docking exercises in the Gemini program. Before committing men to the moon, the Russians also must improve their global tracking and control network which now consists mainly of ships.

R. Buckminster Fuller, in association with Fuller & Sadao, Inc., and Geometrics, Inc. The exhibition was designed by Cambridge Seven Associates, Inc.

The exhibits are mounted on various levels resembling giant lily pads within the dome. These levels are reached by stairs and escalators, including a 125-foot escalator to the space exhibit at the top platform level, nine stories high.

On display, suspended from the frame of the dome, are various components of the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo programs. A simulated lunar landscape supports full-size models of Surveyor One and a 350-degree slide show of the U.S. space program is presented.

Visitors also will see exhibits entitled "The American Spirit," consisting of folk art artifacts such as quilts, guitars and cowboy hardware; "American Painting Now," a collection of contemporary paintings up to 53 feet high, suspended on huge sail cloth panels; and "The American Cinema," a grouping of pictures of movie stars and movie props (like the chariot from the 1926 film "Ben Hur").

The exhibit ends with a three-screen, 18-minute color film about children's games entitled "A Time to Play." It was produced by Art Kane, the photographer, and sponsored by the Polaroid Corp.

heavier than the earlier five-ton Vostoks, which carried one crewman, and the eight-ton Voskhods, one of which carried two men and the other three crewmen.

The rocket that put Soyuz-1 into orbit is reported to be a powerful new type developed and tested over the last two years.

Although the launching of Soyuz-1 ends two years of Soviet inactivity in manned flight, there has been less fanfare than was customary after the launchings of the Soviet Union's eight preceding flights.

The Moscow television, after announcing had reported the launching, carried on with scheduled programs. There has been no live television broadcasts from Soyuz-1 as was the practice during earlier manned flights.

Komarov did, however, broadcast radio greetings to the Soviet people on the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The colonel also used an opportunity while flying over Southeast Asia to broadcast a statement on the Vietnam war.

"My warm greetings to the courageous Vietnamese people fighting with dedication against the bandit aggression of American imperialism for freedom and independence," Tass reported the cosmonaut as having said.

Tass, which in the past provided a heavy flow of information on manned space flights, has distributed only a few terse reports on Soyuz-1 which in Russian means Union.

CITY'S TENSIONS SIMMER

Negro Gangs Bring Cleveland Crackdown

BY BEN A. FRANKLIN

CLEVELAND — This prosperous northern Ohio industrial city has decided to put down its negro street gangs—the young vandals, arsonists, and looters whose repeated acts of senseless rage have left few persons here opposed to countermeasures.

Community leaders, including many negroes, say they believe a crackdown is overdue.

Cleveland's negroes, many of whom appear to know little of the gang crisis here except that they are often its victims, are being asked to support a program frankly designed to suppress unruly negro youths, and most observers believe their reaction will be crucial.

As city councilman Jack A. Banko put it at a "get tough" meeting of city leaders last week, "If the police have to break a few skulls, what will be the reaction of the people in this (negro ghetto) area?"

"Riots?" he asked. "Or will they rise to the occasion and support the police? Let's find out."

There has been no open test of militance on either side since the city's antigang campaign was announced last week, but many here acknowledge that the words sound tough for a northern community.

To stop the gang crime in the ghetto, Mayor Ralph S. Locher, a Democrat who is expected to seek re-election next fall, ordered the police last Tuesday to "fill every jail in Cleveland, if necessary." Police Chief Richard R. Wagner proposed that city firemen be armed with shotguns against the barrages of rocks and bottles that greet them at frequently set fires in the ghetto.

John N. McCormick, a former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who is Cleveland's director of safety, appeared on television to say that he expected charges of police brutality in the campaign and to declare, "I don't care."

Councilman Anthony J. Garofoli, whose ward includes Murray Hill, an Italian section near Hough Avenue, declared

Camp Olmsted Site of Meet

Yesterday Camp Olmsted was the scene of planning conference at which nine lodges of the Order of the Arrow in northwestern Pennsylvania met to discuss plans for the annual conclave of the group.

About 60 representatives of the lodges decided that the host lodge this year for the 22nd annual Area 3-B meeting would be Gyanwachia Lodge No. 255 of Warren with Jack Biltz, leader.

The conclave which will be held in August has been planned by the boy scouts since last summer. It will consist of discussion groups and like interest groups.

Highlight of the affair will be the Indian dance competition.

Briefly Speaking

Nomination of election of officers for Marshall Larson Post No. 314 of American Legion will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Children smoking cigarettes in a car on Dan's Chevrolet used car lot at the intersection of Irvine st. and Pennsylvania ave. east set the front seat ablaze. Minor damage was reported to the car after Warren firemen extinguished the fire.

that his white constituents" are ready to take action themselves." And Leo Jackson, one of 10 negroes on Cleveland's 33-member city council, pleaded with Mayor Locher to summon the National Guard now. Locher replied that there was no emergency.

But many Cleveland officials believe the city is headed for an early repetition of the Hough District riots last July, in which four persons died. Many support the anticrime campaign but say it is too late.

Bertram E. Gardner, a negro former official of the Young Men's Christian Association who heads the Cleveland Community Relations Board, said in an interview that he was advising negro groups to "forget this police brutality business, and if the cops have to use a little force, look up at the stars, look away."

The race relations director said there was "a small but growing spark in the negro community which may end the community's acceptance of violence by negro kids, and thus remove the base from which they operate. If the community won't stand for it, it will stop."

But although Cleveland's conventional civil rights movement is, by wide consensus, dispersed and discredited by the negro violence here, there are still those who worry about the youthful targets of the city's pacification plan and oppose it.

According to the police, the marauding gangs comprise only a few hundred teen-age school dropouts, led on a "pick-up, spur-of-the-moment basis" by no more than 20 to 30 black nationalist extremists who have filled the civil rights leadership void. But when the hard core gangs form, police officials said, other youths join them to loot and throw rocks.

Circus in June

Erie's 18th annual Zem Zem Shrine Circus acclaimed the "greatest outdoor circus pageant" of the nation will start on June 21. Nine performances will take place in the Academy Stadium there.

Don't let the low price scare you off.

$1639*

That's the price of a new Volkswagen. Some people won't buy one because they feel they deserve something costlier. That's the price we pay for the price we charge.

And some people are afraid to buy one because they don't see how we can turn out a cheap car without having it turn out cheap.

This is how.

Since the factory doesn't change the bug's shape every year, we don't have to change the factory every year.

What we don't spend on looks, we spend on improvements to make more people buy the car.

Mass production cuts costs. And VWs have been produced in a greater mass (over 11 million to date) than any car model in history.

Our air-cooled rear engine cuts costs, too, by eliminating the need for a radiator, water pump and drive shaft.

There are no fancy gadgets run by push buttons. (The only push button is on the doors. And those gadgets are run by you.)

When you buy a VW, you get what you pay for. What you don't get is frills.

And you don't pay for what you don't get.

U.S. Jets Shot Down MIG During Attack on Steel Mill

SIAGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Phantom jets shot down one Communist MIG21 and probably knocked down another in an aerial encounter yesterday during an American air attack on a North Vietnamese steel mill 30 miles north of Hanoi.

The definite kill was the 40th MIG shot down by U.S. planes in the air war over North Vietnam.

The U.S. Command reported no American losses, but a Hanoi broadcast claimed one U.S. plane was downed about 50 miles north of the Red capital Sunday and that two others were shot down Saturday in the central areas of North Vietnam.

In other air action, eight-engine B52 bombers hammered Communist positions in and around the demilitarized zone, the buffer area dividing the two Vietnams. The area has become a route for infiltration of Communist troops seeking to seize control of South Vietnam's northernmost province.

Credited with the definite MIG kill were Maj. Robert Anderson, of Tulsa, Okla., command pilot of one Phantom, and his crewman, Capt. Fred Kjer of Allen, Neb. They reported their Sparrow missile hit the enemy plane just behind the cockpit. They saw the MIG crash into the ground and burst into flames, then they had to dodge a Communist surface-to-air missile (SAM), which exploded 200 yards from their plane.

The probable kill was credited to the lead plane of the flight, which was assigned to fly protective cover for the bombing planes.

The B52s hit inside the demilitarized zone Saturday night, aiming their tons of bombs at suspected enemy infiltration routes, a bivouac area and supply point about 18 miles from the South China Sea.

On Sunday morning, the big jets, some of which are based in Thailand and others on Guam, bombed similar targets just south of the zone about 11 miles from the coast.

Work Session Conducted by Summer Theatre

Warren Summer Theatre, despite cold and gusty weather, got off to a good start this past weekend with the first of a series of spring cleaning sessions at the new theater in Scandia. About a dozen workers turned out to move farm machinery, tote hay and lug boards. Work sessions will be held again from 1 to 5 p.m. this coming Saturday and Sunday.

The theater will open for a 10-week season beginning June 28.

Constantine's Choice: Approve Army — or Else

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — King Constantine was forced by the Greek army to approve the military takeover of this Atlantic alliance nation or lose his crown, informed sources said yesterday.

At the same time, a spokesman denied reports that Andreas Papandreu, the country's most controversial left-wing leader, or any other political figure was hurt when the army seized power in the lightning midnight coup Friday.

The spokesman also denied rumors of discord between the army, navy and air force and said that to squelch such reports air force planes were ordered to fly continuously around Greece to demonstrate there is no internal service conflict.

Speaking of Papandreu, the spokesman said, "Andreas is very healthy, in perfect, perfect health. No one who was arrested was harmed in any way."

Papandreu, 48, and his 80-year-old father, former anti-monarchist Premier George Papandreu, still were prisoners of the new military regime, along with about 8,000 others.

But Panayiotis Canellopoulos, the right-wing premier arrested along with other political party leaders in the first hours of the coup, has been freed.

The new regime was moving swiftly to put on an appearance of returning normalcy.

But though the nation was outwardly calm rumors swirled amid fear that the Friday coup might be just the first stage of further turmoil.

A few shots shattered the early morning curfew hours in Athens yesterday. Armed troops still guarded some strategic points.

Yet to be heard from for the first time since the military seized power was the king himself.

The reports on the king's role supported a growing impression in diplomatic circles abroad that the army had decided before consulting him that it would strike.

Such reports were being discussed more freely as tension dissipated under the bright spring sun. Thousands of Athenians returned to their customary sidewalk cafe tables and other thousands drove into the country on picnics.

Traffic was moving almost normally, telephone service resumed and travel abroad was back to normal. Three of Athens' six morning newspapers published limited and censored editions.

It appears necessary again to refute rumors being spread around that, should I be elected Commissioner of Warren County, I would continue to carry on my full practice as a veterinarian.

On the contrary, right now I am in negotiation with a June graduate of Cornell University School of Veterinary Medicine to come to Warren County to take over the large animal work of my practice, which is the time-consuming work of a veterinarian.

This will leave me entirely free to devote full attention, day or night, to carrying out the important business of Warren County government, should I be elected your County Commissioner.

Need 'Nail' to Save a 'Horse'

For the want of a nail, the shoe was lost.
For the want of a shoe, the horse was lost—
This age-old admonition should have special meaning to Warren County residents now that the Kinzua Dam is operational and the prospects of developing a profitable recreational economy is at hand.
It is the "nail" of immediate interest and concern that will eventually lead to the "horse" of ultimate success. Or the lack of it that will rob us of a golden opportunity.
Because this is a fact, county leaders should be paying close attention to those things that advance or hinder our progress.

The development of recreational facilities at the dam site are presently behind visitor demand, and a close check of the planning schedule indicates they may still be behind the overall demand ten years hence.

Yet this is not as alarming as to learn that some of our established facilities are to be lost at the height of our transitional effort.

Two areas at Chapman Dam have been closed to recreational uses

JAMES RESTON

Percy a 'Hot' Little Guy

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—The hottest political article in the Republican party here these days is the junior senator from Illinois, Charles Percy.

"Keep your eye on the little guy," the pros are saying, and it might not be a bad tip. For Percy has clearly jumped out ahead of the new pack of progressive Republicans elected to the Senate last November, and in the present divided and depleted state of the G.O.P., almost anything can happen.

He came up the other day with one of the few new ideas in the field of housing since the invention of indoor plumbing. He wants to create a private non-profit national home ownership foundation authorized to issue up to $2 billion in federally guaranteed debentures for the building of low-cost houses.

This created something of a stir in Washington for several reasons. In the first place, the Republicans have opposed almost every major public housing bill for low income families since the 1930's. They rejected President Johnson's fair housing bill in 1955. They opposed the Johnson rent supplement proposals in the present Congress, and not since the days of Sen. Robert Taft have they shown much interest in the principle of a decent home in a decent neighborhood for every American.

Second, ever since he arrived here Percy has been working industriously on the appalling problems of the cities and arguing that his party will never regain the executive power until it demonstrates that it has the programs and the will to deal with the urban revolution.

Finally, Percy not only worked out a housing plan that would really make the federal government a junior partner in a privately-financed low-cost building program of vast proportions, but he handled it in Washington as if he had been around for years.

After all, the Senate does not like uppity new members who start off, not only with a maiden speech, but with a major program for dealing with one of the country's main problems. Accordingly he prepared the way cautiously by calling personally on the leaders of both parties in the Senate and all the elders of the chamber who have responsibility and authority in this field.

He talked it over in the House as well. He saw that the correspondents of the principal newspapers, television networks and news magazines were well briefed in advance, and he presented it on the floor on behalf of 36 senators of both parties reaching from Tower of Texas to Javits of New York, which is quite a distance.

Under Percy's plan, autonomous non-profit associations would be set up by business, labor, education and religious leaders in each community. These associations would have the help of a technical assistance service, financed by the federal government. The homebuyer would purchase his house from the community organization, get help from the federal government in paying the interest costs on his mortgage, and might contribute his own labor to the project in lieu of a down payment.

No doubt there will be many objections to this plan. For one thing, it is not clear that it would deal with the unemployed and the broken families living on welfare in the very worst of the slums.

But that is not the immediate point. The main thing political is that Percy has come into the Senate with new ideas on the day of the major issues of the day, and meanwhile is taking a lively part in the television and party debates on the future of his party.

He will not go far on his sense of humor, but he is a handsome and attractive television personality, full of confidence and energy, intelligent enough to recognize the lack of genius in the Senate and shrewd enough not to show it.

This may very well put him in the running for the vice presidential nomination on a ticket with Nixon or Rockefeller; he should not be ruled out merely because he has the ability to do the job. Or if Romney or Nixon cannot get a majority in a stalemate convention, he could even wind up with the brass ring.

It is, of course, slightly preposterous to talk about Percy for the White House before he has even had time to find his way out of the tunnels in the Capitol, but this is a preposterous age. Percy is a new figure in a slightly tarnished caste, and he could benefit by the lack of enthusiasm for everybody else.

The patient looked at the word and saw that it was "committed."

"You're not going to have me put away?"

"Nonsense," said the doctor. "It is the new good-guy word in your unthink group. 'Liberal' now means 'bad guy.' That's why I have removed it."

"And to get back into the group, all I have to do is say 'committed.'"

"Ideally," said the doctor, "you should have people say of you, he is committed." When that happens, and word gets about that you have "made a commitment," your return to a gratifying sense of moral superiority should follow quite rapidly.

"But what am I supposed to get committed to?"

"What a silly question! When you were a liberal, you didn't feel that you had to be liberal about anything in particular, did you? The comfort derived from feeling the word snugly wrapped about you. It is the same with being 'committed.' In political unthink nothing much changes but the words."

"Is that right? Let me hear you say it, doc."

"What? 'Committed'?"

"Yeah. Go ahead and say it about me. I want to see what it does for me."

"But it sounds so foolish coming from a rational man."

"Please, doc."

"Oh, all right. You are a committed man."

"Hm. Not bad. I'm beginning to feel superior already."

"It hardly ever fails."

"But what do I say when people ask me what I am, I can't say, 'I'm a committed,' can I?"

"People who unthink of themselves as 'committed' don't ask such questions of each other," the doctor said.

"But suppose one should?"

Dr. Whipsnade thought awhile. "If anyone should," he said at length, "why don't you tell them, 'I'm a committee.' It might make somebody think."

WASHINGTON—Invitations to the right parties were no longer coming in. Clearly it was time to see Dr. Hugo Whipsnade, specialist in political unthink.

"Hm," murmured the professor, "so you think your political unthink is getting a little rusty, eh? A common complaint these days with all the dramatic new advances in unthought. Tell me what social group you want to be recognized in as a really right-thinking fellow. Reactionary? Conservative? Texan?"

"I've always had a weakness for being thought of as liberal, doctor. It always sounded so open-minded being a liberal, like I was really out front there with the goodhearted humanity loving crowd that was going to build the millennium right after the next cocktail party."

"Every man to his own ego satisfaction," said the doctor. "Tell me your symptoms."

"Well, the last time I went out—this was five or six months ago—I was there with all these really right talkers, when one of them turns to me and says, 'and what are you,' 'I'm a liberal,' I said. The rest of the evening I'm totally rejected. I haven't been invited anywhere since."

"Of course not," said Dr. Whipsnade.

"I don't understand it. It's as if everybody suspects me of not loving humanity any more."

"Relax," said the doctor, "all you need is a dose of new jargon, but first of all we'll have to take out some of the old."

"But I love my old jargon, doctor. 'Fighting liberalism.' 'Economic royalists.' 'Dignity of man.' With jargon like that I can talk for hours without ever having to decide what I'm not thinking about."

"There's where you've made your mistake," said the doctor, taking a syringe from the cabinet. "If you were interested in shining among the conservatives, you could let your jargon grow moss on it and be none the worse. That's what makes the conservatives so civilized. They are perfectly satisfied with the unthought that was good enough for grandfather, but that crowd you want to stay in with insists on changing the jargon every week. I suppose it's because they're physiologically hyperactive and need the sensation of constantly unthinking new thoughts."

The doctor inserted the syringe and delicately extracted the word "liberal" from his patient's jargon bank. Then he wrote a word on a piece of paper and handed it across the desk. "Use this word six times a day for the next three weeks, and I think you'll find that you'll be re-entering the most chic circles of political uplift," he said.

The patient looked at the word and saw that it was "committed."

"You're not going to have me put away?"

"Nonsense," said the doctor. "It is the new good-guy word in your unthink group. 'Liberal' now means 'bad guy.' That's why I have removed it."

"And to get back into the group, all I have to do is say 'committed.'"

WASHINGTON—The Navy is carefully sitting on all details regarding the "Caine Mutiny" aboard the U.S.S. Vance in Vietnamese waters which resulted in the removal of Commander Marcus Arnheiter as skipper after junior officers had kept a "Captain's Madness Log" on him.

The case could become as intriguing as Herman Wouk's celebrated novel. It involves the sensitive relations between a commander and his men in war-time; charges by them that he required Catholic officers to attend Protestant religious services and declared candy unfit in order to feed it to Vietnamese children; together with charges by him that he had to transfer the Vance from a pleasure ship to a war ship.

Commander Arnheiter's "relief for cause" has now been reviewed by Rear Admiral Walter M. Baumbarger, former commander of the Cruiser Destroyer Force in the Pacific, and has been filed under "for official use only." This column, however, has examined Baumbarger's review, together with other summaries of the case, and can report on the principal charges against Arnheiter which his junior officers considered to be evidence of madness.

1. Opening fire on shore targets without "a preplanned fire mission" in violation of combat directives. Admiral Baumbarger acknowledged that, on at least one occasion, the Vance's shore bombardment "did not fall strictly within the rules of engagement."

2. Arming a pleasure speedboat with a machinegun and using it to draw enemy fire, thus enabling the Vance to spot gun emplacements. While he had indeed armed the speedboat and had used it to board suspicious junks, the charge that he had used it as a decoy was found to be "completely without credible foundation."

3. Temporarily abandoning the ship's whale boat at night to pursue three unidentified junks, which he later towed back to the area where the whale boat had been left. Concluded Admiral Baumbarger: "Since the mission of Vance included pursuit and search of unidentified craft in its area, the evidence of record does not indicate that Vance's departure from its whale boat in this instance was improper."

4. Giving canned milk, fruit juices, and bread out of the ship's stores to hungry refugees and declaring candy "unfit for use" in order to distribute it among the children. Declared Admiral Baumbarger: "While surveying the candy as 'unfit for use' was improper, the insistence by Lieutenant Commander Arnheiter that food and candy be provided under the circumstances was justified and should not be made the subject of censure."

5. Arnheiter violated Navy rules by bringing liquor on board for beverage purposes and that the use of sherry on gourmet dishes "upgraded the etiquette and tastes of the ward-room officers."

6. Saving himself $1.85 by changing the accounting system for the officers' mess. Admiral Baumbarger found: "The circumstances described do not indicate that the commanding officer was motivated in this instance by a desire to save himself $1.85."

7. Operating a "boner box," into which officers were obliged to deposit 25 cents for each minor infraction. Some $30 was collected, which was used to buy cigars for the officers. In this case, Baumbarger agreed that the "boner box" should have been discontinued if it was resented by the officers.

Baumbarger acknowledged that Arnheiter "exhibited a lack of tact and good judgment in his attempt to achieve commendable goals" and that "many of his methods were not understood and, thus, not supported by some of his subordinates."

The admiral recommended that Arnheiter not be returned to the Vance but be given command of another destroyer "to provide an opportunity for reassessment of his abilities." However, two other admirals, Thomas S. King Jr., commander of the Cruiser Destroyer Flotilla 11 and Donald G. Irvine, who succeeded King, had previously relieved Arnheiter on the ground that the allegations against him, if true, would have impaired the safety of his ship in combat.

Since the Navy first had to choose between supporting Arnheiter, a lieutenant commander, or two admirals, the Navy backed the admirals; and when Admiral Baumbarger came along with his subsequent findings, which contradicted the other two admirals, he was overruled. As the record now stands, Arnheiter was relieved for "gross lack of good judgment and lack of ability to command and lead people."

Vice President Humphrey has quietly warned the White House that the nation soon may be confronted with a serious food shortage unless U.S. farmers are encouraged by higher subsidies to grow more food.

He has pointed out that both the corn and wheat crops for 1967 will fall below original forecasts, a drought still threatens food production in the Southwest, most people realize reserves of both wheat and feed grains are below the safety margin.

For example, there is less than a month's supply of feed grain on hand. This means farmers will be paying more for the grain they feed their livestock. This in turn will boost the price of beef and pork.

Q. How much does a Mexican divorce cost?

A. Let's say you are a resident of New York and plan to get a divorce in Juarez, Mexico. You'll probably pay a total of $250 to $350 for lawyers to represent both spouses. This is in addition, of course, to the legal fees you have already paid to draw up a separation agreement (which, as stated above, can run into many thousands.) The round-trip air fare between New York and El Paso, Texas is $221.80, and with overnight hotel expenses, taxis and other costs, the total will probably reach at least $300.

Q. How much does a Reno divorce cost?

A. Again, assuming you'll fly from New York, the round trip economy air fare to Reno is $290.20. Living costs for the six weeks you are required to reside in Reno will probably run another $600. Legal fees are likely to total between $500 and $750, a minimum of $350 for the spouse who makes the trip and $150 for the other spouse. So the total for a New Yorker will amount to at least $1,400.

Q. How much alimony will you have to pay?

A. The amount depends on the number and ages of the children, the financial status of the wife (e.g., whether she is working and at what salary and the size of her own independent wealth), and the financial status of the husband. Typically, the husband will pay between 20 and 50 per cent of his salary in alimony and, if the divorce contract contains an escalator clause, the payment will rise if and when his salary rises.

Tomorrow: Indirect costs of divorce.

I have, therefore, put some of your most frequently asked questions on the direct and indirect costs of divorce to Judge Morris Ploscowe, New York University law professor, author and nationally-known authority on the cost of divorce in the U.S. today. In today's and tomorrow's columns I'll give you Judge Ploscowe's answers to these questions.

Q. How much do divorce lawyers charge today?

A. Assuming only a minimum of negotiation in the basic separation agreement between divorcing husband and wife, the basis for the divorce contract itself, legal fees for those in the $10,000-$20,000 income bracket are likely to run between $500 and $2,500 for each lawyer. The lawyer representing the party who may be opposing the divorce will probably get the larger share.

For those in lower income brackets, legal fees are likely to be in the $250-500 range for each lawyer, while for those in the very high income brackets, says Ploscowe, "lawyers often charge whatever the traffic will bear." Their fees in these top-income cases may run as high as $100,000 or more. All these amounts will soar if negotiations are complex and drawn-out.

Note: In addition, some states may require a third lawyer to represent any children involved.

A. Let's say you are a resident of New York and plan to get a divorce in Juarez, Mexico. You'll probably pay a total of $250 to $350 for lawyers to represent both spouses. This is in addition, of course, to the legal fees you have already paid to draw up a separation agreement (which, as stated above, can run into many thousands.) The round-trip air fare between New York and El Paso, Texas is $221.80, and with overnight hotel expenses, taxis and other costs, the total will probably reach at least $300.

Q. How much does a Reno divorce cost?

A. Again, assuming you'll fly from New York, the round trip economy air fare to Reno is $290.20. Living costs for the six weeks you are required to reside in Reno will probably run another $600. Legal fees are likely to total between $500 and $750, a minimum of $350 for the spouse who makes the trip and $150 for the other spouse. So the total for a New Yorker will amount to at least $1,400.

Q. How much alimony will you have to pay?

A. The amount depends on the number and ages of the children, the financial status of the wife (e.g., whether she is working and at what salary and the size of her own independent wealth), and the financial status of the husband. Typically, the husband will pay between 20 and 50 per cent of his salary in alimony and, if the divorce contract contains an escalator clause, the payment will rise if and when his salary rises.

Tomorrow: Indirect costs of divorce.

I have, therefore, put some of your most frequently asked questions on the direct and indirect costs of divorce to Judge Morris Ploscowe, New York University law professor, author and nationally-known authority on the cost of divorce in the U.S. today. In today's and tomorrow's columns I'll give you Judge Ploscowe's answers to these questions.

Q. How much do divorce lawyers charge today?

A. Assuming only a minimum of negotiation in the basic separation agreement between divorcing husband and wife, the basis for the divorce contract itself, legal fees for those in the $10,000-$20,000 income bracket are likely to run between $500 and $2,500 for each lawyer. The lawyer representing the party who may be opposing the divorce will probably get the larger share.

For those in lower income brackets, legal fees are likely to be in the $250-500 range for each lawyer, while for those in the very high income brackets, says Ploscowe, "lawyers often charge whatever the traffic will bear." Their fees in these top-income cases may run as high as $100,000 or more. All these amounts will soar if negotiations are complex and drawn-out.

Note: In addition, some states may require a third lawyer to represent any children involved.

Yancey Cops Dallas Open Lead, Last Round Today

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey, the former West Point cadet, pulled a great shot out of the bag on the 18th hole yesterday to finish with a four under par 66 and take the lead at 54 holes in the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open Golf Tournament.

Putting like a machine and sinking them for birdies from as far as 25, 50, 40 and 15 feet, Yancey, sensation of the Masters tournament where he lead for three rounds and wound up third, made his total 203. He will boast a one-stroke lead going into the final 18 holes today.

Kermit Zarley, seeking his first tournament victory in four years on the tour, was a stroke back of Yancey. Zarley fired a 68 yesterday for a 204.

Roberto DeVicenzo, the Argentine who led at 36 holes with 134, faltered to a 73 and fell to a tie for seventh place with Gay Brewer.

Yancey had only 26 putts with 10 one-putt greens. His great shot on 18 came when he sprayed his tee shot and had to hook over trees, a television camera, a trap and the crowd and landed 15 feet from the hole which he sank for the lead.

Yancey said he was putting as well as he ever had in his life but he was spraying his tee and iron shots and attributed this to a sprained wrist suffered the first day of the tournament. He said he would bandage the wrist for the final 18 holes.

Bright sunshine dried the 6,777-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course where rain postponed one round and caused another to be halted.

Bob Goalby took a bogey on 18 and fell to a tie for third place with a par 70 that gave him 205.

In a tie with Goalby was Charles Stifford, who also shot a 70 for 205.

Yancey has been on the tour for four years and has won almost $100,000. He won three tournaments last year — Azalea, Memphis and Portland Opens.

Yancey has won $20,727 this year. He is a former collegiate golfer, the same as Zarley, who won the NCAA championship while playing for the University of Houston.

Brewer, the Masters champion, could do no better than 72 yesterday.

Doug Sanders shot a 67 to tie Bob Charles of New Zealand, who had the day's best round of 65, for sixth place at 206.

There was one disqualification when Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., failed to sign his card after shooting a 75 for 220.

North and South Am Golf Tourney Today

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Ward Wetlaufer of Atlanta and four members of the U.S. Walker Cup squad head the field of 128 that opens the 67th North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today with 64 first round matches.

Cup players who will meet the British next month at Sandwich, England, are Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla.; Jim Grant of Wethersfield, Conn.; Jack Lewis of Florence, S.C.; and Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va.

Wetlaufer is a cup team alternate. Campbell, who has won at Pinehurst three times, and Wetlaufer are among eight former champions in the field.

Others are Tom Draper of Birmingham, Mich.; Dale Morley of High Point, N.C.; Bill

Hyndman of Huntingdon Valley, Pa.; Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla.; Charlie Smith of Gastonia, N.C., and Frank Strafaci of Miami, Fla., last successive winner, in 1938-39.

Murphy, Campbell and Chapman are former national champions.

Others with credentials notes impressive, but threats here are Bill Harvey of Greensboro, N.C.; Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz.; Dave Smith of Gastonia, N.C.; Pat Foy Brady of Reidsville, Fla.; Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla.; Leonard Thompson of Laurinburg, N.C.; Charles Harrison and Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta, and Marion Heck of Fort Myers, Fla., runner-up last spring.

A second round will be played tomorrow over the 7,000-yard, par 72 No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, with two rounds Wednesday.

Petty Captures Virginia 500, Pilots Plymouth

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Richard Petty captured the 12th annual Virginia 500 stock car race yesterday—the first major NASCAR victory for Plymouth this year.

The Randleman, N.C., bachelor, driving his Blue 1967 GTX, claimed the race for good 20 laps from the end.

Carl Yarborough, who led 259 laps — more than half the 250-mile race — blamed his second-place finish on a late-race accident which crushed the fender of his 1967 Fairlane against its right rear wheel.

The tire started melting, giving handling problems on the turns, and Yarborough was forced to slow down.

J. T. Putney of Arden, N.C., finished third in a 1967 Chevrolet.

Junked Autos Will Find New Uses: Fishing Reef

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., announced yesterday that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has issued a permit for the establishment of an artificial fishing reef at Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

The action paves the way for a federal-state demonstration project, tentatively scheduled for mid-May, in which an estimated 500 to 1,000 cleaned and stripped car bodies and other building material will be sunk approximately 60 feet below the

Soph Posts 3:54.7 at Relays Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Jim Ryun, the splendid sophomore from Kansas, was an overwhelming choice for the Don Pierce award as the most outstanding performer at the 42nd Kansas Relays, for his intercollegiate record 3:54.7 mile and a 47.0 quarter leg on the mile relay.

"I'm right where I want to be," said the 19-year-old Sullivan Award winner, who had no thoughts of trying for his world record of 3:51.3.

He indicated he's right on schedule in his quest for a 3:50 mile this year.

Ryun's selection was no surprise, but it wasn't unanimous. Some support went to Jim Hines the leader of Texas Southern's fabulous stable of sprinters, and Wichita's Fred Burton, whose 16-7 pole vault was one of 10 meet records in the three-day meet. Two other marks were tied.

Ryun's time was the 12th fastest in track history for the mile and his third best. It smashed the intercollegiate mark of 3:56.4 set in 1965 by Bob Day of UCLA.

Hines tied the 37-year-old meet record of 9.4 in the 100, then anchored TSU to meet marks of 40 flat in the college 440 relay and 1:22.8 in the 880 relay. Hines & Co. tied the world 440 mark of 30.6 a week earlier.

SUB-FOUR MILE

Jim Ryun was voted the Most Outstanding competitor in the Kansas Relays Saturday after winning the Glenn Cunningham Mile in 3 minutes 54.7 seconds, a new intercollegiate record and the fastest time in the world this year. Ryun also holds the world mark of 3:51.3, but was denied a half-mile record on a technicality earlier this year.

Sets Fan Mark

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A goal on a penalty shot by Eric Hahn of Germany in the 89th minute gave St. Louis a 2-1 victory over the California Clippers yesterday before a record National Soccer League crowd of 34,129.

The crowd, which turned out on a rainy, foggy day, was the second largest attendance for a soccer game in the United States. The largest was 41,500 which witnessed an exhibition game in New York last year. Hahn scored both of St. Louis' goals when he entered the game in the second half. Hahn had replaced St. Louis' Pat McBride, who had injured an eye, Hahn last played for the Munich team.

Hahn's first goal came on a corner shot by teammate Kasi Frankiewicz in the 67th minute of the game.

Emerson Defeated

MADRID (AP)—Erik Lundquist of Sweden won an international tennis tournament by defeating Australia's Roy Emerson 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 in the men's singles final yesterday. The match lasted nearly two hours.

Shotputter Breaks Own World Mark with 71-5½

By HAROLD B. RATLIFF
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Randy Matson, who became the first man in history to exceed 71 feet in the shot put, then went on a wiener roast to relax while the telephone rang in his apartment, needs pressure to do his best.

"I need to have something pushing me," he said late Saturday night, after he and his wife had returned home from the picnic with friends. "I sure had it today. They honored me at Texas A&M, gave me a couple of plaques and a scroll and I just had to do something."

So, what he did was throw the shot 71 feet, 5½ inches to break his own world's record set almost two years ago at 70 feet, 7½ inches.

That's the history of Matson and his Bunyanesque feats. Just let somebody build up his tension and watch the guy go. Remember when Neal Steinhauer of Oregon, the world's second best shot putter, beat him last indoor season? Shortly afterward, Randy proceeded to throw the shot 70 feet, 7½ inches—about four feet farther than Steinhauer. It wasn't a record though because he threw the outdoor shot indoors.

And in the 1964 Olympics, Matson responded to pressure by throwing 66 feet, 3¼ inches to lead the event until Dallas Long won it with his last pitch — 66 feet, 8¼ inches. Randy was only a Texas A&M freshman then.

Bringing the Aggie giant up to date, he has thrown the 16-pound ball better than 60 feet in his last 77 meets, has pitched it 70 feet or better six times and in

Fight Card Features Elorde Bout

By The Associated Press
Flash Elorde, the world junior lightweight champion from the Philippines, tunes up for another title defense tomorrow when he takes on Japan's Fujio Mikami in a non-title 10-rounder in Honolulu.

Tomorrow's bout will be the 32-year-old Filipino's first since he was knocked out in the 14th round by lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz in New York last Nov. 14.

Elorde is scheduled to defend his 130-pound junior crown against Japan's Yoshiaki Numa in Tokyo June 8. It will be his 11th defense of the title he won from Harold Gomes seven years ago.

Jerry Quarry, the heavy-weight prospect from Los Angeles, opposes Alex Miteff, the onetime heavyweight contender from Argentina who is making a comeback, at Los Angeles Thursday night.

The week's bouts include:

Tuesday
At Honolulu, junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde, Philippines, vs. Fujio Mikami, Japan, non-title, 10. Thursday at Los Angeles, Jerry Quarry, Los Angeles, vs. Alex Miteff, Argentina, heavies, 10.

Friday
At Jersey City, N.J., Chuck Wepner, Bayonne, N.J., vs. Don McAttee, Paterson, N.J., heavies, 8. At West Palm Beach, Fla., Ray Cano, San Juan, P.R., vs. Roscoe Bell, Cocoa, Fla., middles, 10.

3RD GAME TOMORROW

Maple Leaf Victory Evens Cup Playoffs

MONTREAL (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs have evened their Stanley Cup playoff series with Montreal at one game apiece, and the victory has led Coach Punch Imlach to one conclusion.

"There's only one way to beat the Canadiens — shove it down their throats," the Toronto coach said after his team blanked Montreal 3-0 Saturday. "I don't think any member of our club played badly. Remember, we were two men short for a while. When you can keep a team from scoring in a situation like that you have to be good — lucky, too."

While the Maple Leafs' attackers were jamming the puck at the Canadiens, Toronto goalie Johnny Bower was knocking it back at them, too. He turned away 31 Canadian shots while posting his fifth shutout in Stanley Cup play.

The Leafs kept Canadian goalie Rogatien Vachon somewhat busier, peppering him with 43 shots. Three got past him. They were fired by Pete Stenkowski, Tim Horton and Mike Walton. The National Hockey League championships best-of-7 series moves to Toronto for the third and fourth games tomorrow and Thursday.

Back in Toronto, the Leafs held a light practice session yesterday. The only member of the team who didn't dress was right winger Jim Pappin who suffered an injured left foot in Saturday's contest.

"He'll probably play in tomorrow's game," Imlach said.

Not Always Perfect

NEW YORK—To the genuine fan there is no bigger thrill than a glimpse at perfection of any play in any sport. One such play was unfolded before his delighted gaze a week ago in the Stanley Cup semi-final hockey series between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks. Television even sharpened appreciation of its flawlessness by offering instant replay and slow motion action, thereby emphasizing the beautiful flow of its picture book artistry.

Most impressed of all were the New York Ranger followers because they rarely are privileged to see a perfect play—unless it's the opposition who achieves it. This was one right off a coach's drawing board. Mike Walton of the Leafs flipped a pass from right point to Dave Keon at center in front of the Chicago goal.

That tricky operative feinted the defenseman out of position so thoroughly that even the goalie fell for the fake. Lounging next to the cage with all the nonchalance of a man waiting on the corner for a streetcar was Frank Mahovlich. He took Keon's pass and gently curled the puck into the wide-open net. It was the perfect play.

Yet hockey has far more imperfect goals scored than ever are hammered home by long-range planning and coordinated precision in execution. They come from better-skater scrambles at the goal mouth, from screens, from deflected shots and from down-right freaks.

Most fascinating of these, of course, are the freaks. They get talked about so much that they become part of the hockey legend and are recounted with gusto whenever the oldtimers get together to reminisce about the memorable events of their past.

Sometimes they begin by discussing the goal that Howie Morenz of the Canadiens scored on Roy Worters of the ancient New York Americans. Since this was the only tally of a 1-0 game, it had a certain significance. The swift Morenz blasted in a scorcher.

But little Roy was alert. With the deftness of a Willy Mays spearing a line drive, he struck out his glove and speared the puck. Then he straightened up and casually tried to flip it out of danger behind the cage. Unfortunately, the disc stuck in his ice-encrusted glove. To Worters' horror and dismay it trickled down his back and into the cage.

Gump Worsley, then with the Rangers, had an almost similar experience with Boom-Boom Geoffrion, then of the Canadiens. The Boomer exploded one. Gump stopped the puck with his glove and it dribbled down his sleeve into the net for a tally.

Because luck guides the puck much too often, goaltending can be a frustrating job. Gump had another sad experience in a Ranger-Bruin battle. Allen Stanley of Boston fired in a shot. Harry Howell, still a rugged defender for the Rangers, did what he was supposed to do. He stuck out a glove to deflect the shot. He deflected it, all right. It caromed toward Jack Evans, struck him on the seat of his pants and fell into the net.

Part of the legend inevitably concerns Hughie Lehmann, one of the greatest of all goaltenders. He retired to become coach of the Black Hawks and was breaking in the great Chuck Gardiner, then just starting his career and not starting it too well. So Hughie decided to return to action and give his pupil a lesson in the fine art of guarding the net.

"Watch me, my boy," Hughie said patronizingly.

Chuck watched and was not particularly edified. By the third period the opposition had poured 10 goals past the dazed and uncomprehending Lehmann. Then someone sent a long, lazy shot down ice. Hughie skated out from the cage to intercept the puck. Just as he reached it, his skate inexplicably shot out from under him and down he went, arms flailing wildly. Attached to one arm was his hand with the stick in it. It swung in a disorderly arc—and knocked the rubber into his own cage for the 11th goal of a daffy evening.

When Billy Beveridge was first breaking in as a big league goalie, he had the misfortune to face a Ranger team when the Blues were good. They poured it on him for a 9-1 rout. He was furious and skated over to the New Yorkers as they were leaving the ice for an angry parting salvo.

"You greedy pigs!" he said. "I hope I live to see the day when the Rangers get beaten 10 to 1."

He lived that long and he saw it happen. But he didn't gloat about it. By that time he was the Ranger goalie and the 10-1 score was made against him.

HANOI ASKS FOR TORPEDO BOATS

Russia May Step Up Vietnam Aid

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam recently has made new demands on the Soviet Union for increased military aid, including torpedo boats and more rockets, diplomatic officials reported yesterday.

The apparently well-based report coincides with evidence that the Soviet government has switched to a tougher line on the war in Vietnam following peace-making efforts last February by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin during a visit with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London.

In contrast to reports of Kosygin's peace-seeking role at that time, Soviet diplomats have been emphasizing to U.S. officials during the past 10 days that Kosygin strongly supported North Vietnam during his talks with Wilson.

They are trying to make it emphatically clear, as U.S. officials see it, that the Soviet Union is "a party to the conflict" in Vietnam.

The first recent evidence of tightening links between the Soviet Union and North Vietnam came about two weeks ago when the United States began to receive information that the U.S.S.R. and China had made a deal for expanding Soviet munitions shipments across Chinese territory.

It is understood that this agreement was worked out on North Vietnam's initiative. It reportedly called for North Vietnamese to join their munition shipments at the Soviet-Chinese border and see that they got safely through China, where harassment and delays, even thefts of arms, have been reported in the past.

The renewed Moscow tough line was talked by one of the chief Soviet journalists and commentators, Yuri Zhukov, who came here a week ago and met informally with such highly placed U.S. officials as presidential assistant Walt Rostow and Ambassador at Large Averell Harriman.

The Soviet role still is to supply North Vietnam with arms and equipment—about 85 per cent of all the modern armaments which North Vietnam receives, according to U.S. calculations.

The Russians are reported to have told U.S. officials repeatedly in the past that their aid was primarily to strengthen the defense of North Vietnam. They are said to make a sharp distinction between their concern for the defense of the North and aid, which they reportedly do not supply directly, to the Communist guerrilla and regular military units in the South.

Authorities here say there is no doubt, however, that some Soviet-supplied weapons have gotten through to the South. They apparently have in mind such items as the 20-mile-range rockets used to attack American bases in the last few months.

North Vietnam's new demands, according to authoritative diplomatic officials, cover more rockets, supplies of patrol boats, and higher aircraft. The North Vietnamese air force is equipped with some 100-plus Soviet-designed MIGs, made either in the U.S.S.R. itself or possibly in Communist China.

The reported patrol boat request apparently is viewed by some Soviet authorities at least as falling within the definition of defensive forces since torpedo craft might be used to strike at U.S. naval task forces from which many air strikes have been launched against North Vietnam.

The Soviet Union already has supplied Hanoi with surface-to-air missiles (SAMs), radar guidance systems and technical training for the defense of key areas, particularly Hanoi itself.

The Soviet position in the conflict and particularly the impact of that position on Soviet-U.S. relations is believed here to have been up for review in Moscow. The Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, returned to Moscow for consultation April 13. He still is there.

Shortly after Dobrynin left, Zhukov arrived in Washington for one of his periodic visits to the United States. He told associates here he had planned the trip some time before, but U.S. officials with whom he talked decided that one of his purposes was to restore the more belligerent Soviet stance over Vietnam.

Zhukov and the embassy officials here argued that there is a growing danger of U.S.-Soviet confrontation over Vietnam the longer the conflict goes on.

The discussions resulting from Zhukov's visit and other information reaching high quarters of the U.S. government reportedly leave no doubt that the Soviet government is under pressure from North Vietnam to "escalate its aid in both quantity and quality," as one informant put it.

World of 2067; Computer Traffic

By RICHARD D. LYONS

(c) New York Times News Service

NEW YORK—A century from now Americans will be eating synthetic foods, living in domed cities and commuting to work along computerized traffic lanes—if the crystal balls of leading engineering educators are flawless.

Should their forecasts be correct, the world of 2067 will feature space flights to the planets, electric autos, one-man planes, solar power, three-dimensional television, undersea farming, computerized instruction, biomedical engineering and even brain-wave communication.

The predictions stemmed from a nationwide survey, released yesterday, of 232 technology experts, including 180 deans of engineering schools.

More than 1,000 predictions of what the world would be like a century from now were made in response to questionnaires submitted by the Keuffel & Esser Company, of New York, suppliers of equipment and material for engineers and architects. The survey was conducted in connection with the company's 100th anniversary.

According to the survey, developments in transportation—surface, undersea, air and space—will be the foremost engineering achievements of the next 100 years.

The technologists forecast new rapid surface, subsurface and undersea transit systems; the return of the electric car; use of computers to control vehicular movement and thwart traffic congestion; the invention of planes for one-person air travel; and the development of more advanced vehicles for aircraft, rocket and interplanetary flights.

Copters May Help Stem Road Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man who directs federal traffic safety efforts is turning to a wartime technique—use of helicopters—to evacuate the injured—in an attempt to help stem the death toll on the nation's highways.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., who became interested in highway safety through his studies and work in public health, said, "Helicopters have worked brilliantly in Vietnam and they certainly could work brilliantly at home."

The idea would be to transfer persons injured in automobile accidents as quickly as possible to a hospital or to bring medical help to them promptly at the scene of an accident.

TARBES (AP) — The bachelor derby at the nearby French town of Escarros will be conducted again this year May 14 and its organizers say girls can choose from unmarried men of all shapes and sizes. The organizers tried the idea last year in an effort to revive the dying villages in the picturesque region of the Pyrenees. Last year, only two marriages resulted from the derby.

North Vietnamese Kill 47 Marines

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — Forty-six Marines were killed and 103 were wounded during a weekend battle with North Vietnamese regulars, a United States Military spokesman announced yesterday.

The enemy force was said to have suffered 96 men killed and an unknown number of wounded.

The engagement took place in hilly terrain near the coast on the border between Quangbinh and Quangnam provinces about 350 miles north of Saigon.

The provinces are two of the five that comprise the First Corps Area, the northernmost in the country. It has been the scene of sharply increasing enemy activity in recent weeks.

To counter these attacks and the threat posed by an estimated three divisions of North Vietnamese troops poised just beyond the Demilitarized Zone, the high command is reinforcing the two Marine divisions and supporting units in the area with three army brigades.

The spokesman said the weekend action began when a patrol of about 100 men of the First Marine Regiment, pushing north from Chu Lai, ran into a larger North Vietnamese force.

The Marines apparently suffered heavy casualties in the encounter and both sides quickly moved in reinforcements. At least a 500-man battalion of the North Vietnamese Third Regiment took part, the spokesman said. The allied force grew to "several battalions" of South Vietnamese and Marines, assisted by air strikes and bombardment by 175-millimeter artillery.

At Ducpho, about 20 miles south of the provincial capital of Quangnam, elements of Task Force Oregon came to grips with dug-in enemy units, and reported killing 20 at the cost of one man wounded.

Fight Still Goes On

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — To the Negro, it's a long way from the rear of a trolley to living in any neighborhood he pleases. He integrated this city's horse-drawn trolleys in 1871 by siting and ride-ins. Heads were bloodied and a few people went to jail but he won his right to sit up front.

Today, he's using the same tactics in an attempt to force adoption of an ordinance that would enable him to buy property anywhere in Louisville.

Evening marches through the city's South End have attracted hundreds of hecklers, most of them teenagers, many of them armed with rocks and bottles — and a few with knives.

Heads are being cracked again. Arrests are made daily. An integrated police force has had to use tear gas to restore order in a community previously noted for harmonious race relations.

The city has a court order prohibiting demonstrations after dark but it is being ignored.

"We will walk the streets every night until they cut the streets from under us," says the Rev. A. D. Williams King, leader of the demonstrations, which picked up intensity last week after the Board of Aldermen, on a 9-3 vote, killed an open-housing ordinance. It drew affirmative votes only from two Negro and one white alderman. King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., responded by calling in more demonstrators, many with experience in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi.

An economic boycott has been ordered for the downtown business district, including the furniture store owned by the family of Mayor Kenneth Schmied and the brewery which employs Board of Aldermen President John Young.

Demonstrators also have threatened to disrupt the Kentucky Derby on May 5.

King's civil rights zeal isn't shared by all Negroes, who make up 20 per cent of the city's 400,000-plus population.

Most of the Negroes are crowded into the West End, an area of constant change, with Negroes moving in and whites leaving. Both sides admit it and census figures confirm it.

Some Negroes contend there is a master plan — drafted years ago by white politicians, white money lenders and white real estate dealers — to make the West End a Negro ghetto.

This is denied heatedly by the whites.

The Louisville Board of Realtors opposed the open-housing ordinance but says its objections were centered on one clause — which would have exempted individuals who sold their houses without a real estate agent.

The 1960 census figures show clearly that Louisville Negroes live in worse housing than whites. These figures reveal that more than half the Negro population has a reasonably decent home but for the rest, it's a grim picture: high rent, overcrowded apartments, repairs seldom made, and an overpopering feeling that there's nowhere else to go.

Said one West End: "If you complain to your landlord, he just tells you that you're lucky to have a place. He's an alien. He lives in a white neighborhood where conditions are bound to be better."

De Gaulle Turns Down 'War Trial'

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has told organizers of the Bertrand Russell "war crimes tribunal" that he agrees with their anti-American position on Vietnam but he still can't let them hold sessions in France.

De Gaulle said the government opposes any "tribunal" sessions in Paris because the United States, "a state with which France has relations," would be the object of "extravagant legal proceedings for international usage."

"It is not necessary to point out that (Lord Russell and his friends) are invested with no power, nor charged with any international mandate, and that they would therefore not be able to accomplish any act of justice," De Gaulle said in an April 19 letter to philosopher Jean Paul Sartre, French president of the Russell "tribunal."

The letter was in response to a written query from Sartre asking whether the government intended to prevent the "tribunal" from sitting in Paris as scheduled April 26. Both letters were made public Sunday by Elysee Palace.

Lodge Says Reds Blocked by U.S. in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said yesterday that by blocking Communist conquest in Vietnam the United States so far has denied the whole edge of East Asia to the expansion of China.

Lodge, U.S. envoy in Saigon, also declared "you can have tremendous military successes" in the war in South Vietnam but a durable peace will not be achieved until the Communist guerrilla system and terrorism are wiped out.

Lodge expressed these views on the ABC radio and television program "Issues and Answers." The interview was recorded in Saigon and broadcast here Sunday.

Veterans Service Expanded

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Department of Labor and Industry has under way a special program to assist Pennsylvania armed forces veterans find jobs, it was announced yesterday.

Secretary William J. Hart, said the department so far this year, has aided about 7,000 former servicemen, most of whom were stationed in Vietnam. He said the program's goal was to help more than 250,000 servicemen.

"Pennsylvania is the pilot state in this activity," he said in a statement. "We are the first."

Under the program, two letters — one signed by Hart, the other by Gov. Shafer — are sent to Pennsylvanians when they are discharged from the service.

Hart's letter urges the veterans to visit their local office of the State Bureau of Employment Security to discuss job opportunities.

Hart said each of the offices has a Veterans Employment Service representative available for individual assistance.

Mile Walk Every Day Keeps You in Shape

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Keeping in good shape, year 'round, doesn't require daily — and expensive — trips to the gym, says an expert on physical fitness.

"Just walk a mile every day," advises Dr. Walter Bortz, director of two major research programs on obesity and metabolic disorders at Lankenau Hospital.

"But don't dawdle — walk briskly!"

Men who didn't exercise regularly all winter, says the internal medicine specialist, should forget about transplanting that tree, building that wall, or playing a fast five sets of tennis under a warm spring sun.

UNDER HOUSE BILL

Boroughs Could Gain New Power

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — Boroughs in Warren County would be authorized to award contracts and make purchases of up to $2,000 without taking bids and without publishing legal notice, under terms of legislation now in the Senate.

The bill, now in the Senate Local Government Committee would raise the no-bid no-advertisement ceiling to $2,000 from the present $1,000 for Warren County's six boroughs.

Another proposed amendment to the Borough Code, this one in the House of Representatives, would give the mayors of Warren County boroughs "the power and jurisdiction" of a Notary Public during their term of office, during which period no bond would be required to be posted as is normally the case with Notaries Public. The bill is in the House Committee on Boroughs.

Another House measure, designed to regulate the licensing of drive-in theaters by boroughs, would amend the Borough Code by stipulating that a license fee imposed by a borough on a drive-in theater may not exceed $200 per year.

This bill is in the House Municipal Corporations Committee.

How Area's Solons Voted

Sen. Richard Frame and Rep. William Fuelhart, who represent Warren County in the state Legislature, voted yes on all measures brought before the General Assembly last week.

The measures approved by Frame included a provision that telephoning another person and misinforming him or her that a member of the family was dead or harmed constitutes an infraction of the law.

Fuelhart approved a bill that allows issuance of antlerless deer licenses to members of the armed forces or those recently discharged.

CONSERVATIVE ELEMENTS

Shafer Sees 'Strangle Gang' Threat to Reform

BY VINCENT P. CAROCCI

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvanians, beware for the Strangle Gang is upon us! Or is it?

The Strangle Gang? Just what is it, and who are the bosses? Well, to hear Gov. Shafer tell it, the Strangle Gang is the enemy of constitutional revision, marching on Pennsylvania, "rope in hand," to deny her "the one thing she needs most to conquer the future—a modern state constitution."

And who counts the cadence for these storm troops? Well, Shafer says its MacFarland, Swartz and Watson. And who are MacFarland, Swartz and Watson?

Well, MacFarland (MacFarland is the way Shafer's speechwriters spell it) is W. Henry MacFarland of Philadelphia, a political rightist who has been cited by responsible federal and state authorities as a peddler of racist views.

Swartz is Edward S. Swartz (Shafer's speechwriters called him George Swartz one time this past week), a Humseltown businessman, a founder of the conservative Constitutional party, and its unsuccessful candidate for governor last year.

Watson is Andrew J. Watson a Harrisburg attorney, a co-founder with Swartz of the new party, and its first statewide chairman.

These are the men who, Shafer charged in a speech, stand "in the front row" of the forces which are fighting constitutional revision this spring.

To be sure, the governor concedes, "there are other sinister members of the Strangle Gang," whom he threatened to expose as his self-declared "do-or-die" drive for revision progressed.

Indeed, he did. In a speech this past Tuesday night, Shafer, for the first time, publicly pointed his finger at the minor judiciary and counted many of that powerful bloc among the forces aligned against his campaign.

But in so doing, he took pains to note:

"A new voice has joined the Swartz - MacFarland - Watson firm that was established to take Pennsylvania backwards." The implication was clear. It still was Swartz, MacFarland and Watson who were directing the charge.

It is a matter of record that the three men are opposed to the constitutional questions which will appear on the May 16 primary election ballot, and are working against them with all the resources at their command.

Jamestown Students Visit UN

About 40 students from Jamestown Community College left yesterday on a three-day seminar at the United Nations Headquarters in New York City.

Prof. David G. Tharaeparambil, of the Political Science Department and Director of the College's Political Science Students Association, noted that the group will meet with representatives of Yugoslavia, Argentina, Nigeria, Sweden, and the U.S. missions during their visit. A tour is scheduled for Tuesday morning. Students will have lunch in the delegates dining room at the U.N.

The general theme of the trip is entitled "International Cross-Pressures in the U.N. and the Role of the United States."

Part of the funds for the trip were raised by the student association's International Festival and Dinner held at the College on April 8.

Prof. Tharaeparambil said the trip was being taken to give students a first hand look at the workings of the U.N. and to become more familiar with the procedures and atmosphere of the organization.

State Approves Two-County OEO Grant

Representatives George Alexander (R-Clarion-Venango) and L. Eugene Smith (R-Jefferson-Clearfield) have announced that Governor Shafer has approved a federal Economic Opportunity grant for an anti-poverty program in Jefferson and Clarion counties.

Granted $44,730 by OEO and increased by $6,485 in local financing, this project will provide classrooms in Clarion, Rimersburg, Punxsutawney and Reynoldsville, each serving 15 children, three to eight years old.

But, it should be said that they are not working in harmony. Swartz and Watson repeatedly have disavowed MacFarland as a leader, charter member or official voice of their party. When MacFarland and 12 other registered party members sought a court injunction to prevent the limited constitutional convention from being submitted to the electorate, Swartz promptly declared that the suit in no way was authorized or endorsed by the party leadership.

In addition, an objective analysis of conservative strength in Pennsylvania would indicate that these three men, collectively or individually, wield little political power in this state.

Incomplete registration figures for the May primary-final until April 26 indicate the Constitutional party will be hard pressed to reach 2,000 registrants statewide.

There are approximately 6,000 members of the minor judiciary alone, and a recent Associated Press poll revealed the justices of the peace were lining up almost 2-to-1 against the convention question.

Also Swartz managed to poll only 57,000 votes in last year's gubernatorial campaign out of the 2.1 million cast, hardly an overwhelming display of strength.

Shafer strategists intimate that these 57,000 votes are enough to defeat the convention question. But the simple fact is that if these voters flock to the polls in this campaign, they will most likely vote against the convention anyway. The governor is conceded little if any chance to convert this core of votes.

Finally it is doubtful that the conservative forces have the financial resources to conduct a full-scale, statewide campaign against the constitutional questions.

They certainly lacked the funds to spread their message or publicize their candidate effectively last year, and there is no evidence of a concerted, well-financed registration drive by them this year.

In an attempt to generate a controversy to shake voter apathy, Shafer and his strategists apparently have decided to set Swartz, Watson and MacFarland up as the figurehead dragons in this epic battle.

But, in truth, they should be concentrating their fire on the minor judiciary, the county row officials, and an unconcerned electorate. These are the real opponents of constitutional revision this time around.

Youngsville Slates Community Meeting

BY PEGGY AND LEW CRIPPEN

Youngsville area citizens will have the opportunity to discuss community problems when the Community Action organization meets in the all-purpose room of the Youngsville elementary at 7:30 tonight.

Donald E. Abraham was elected president. Mrs. Richard Peters was chosen as vice president and Mrs. William Wilbert became the secretary and member of the Warren-Forest County Board in an earlier meeting sponsored by the Economic Opportunity Council.

Recently, Richard Brown, director, Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council, met with Youngsville borough officials to discuss methods to pursue in seeking financial assistance in the construction of a community facility. In Youngsville, the community facility, which may be financed through the Housing and Urban Development Department in a community building.

At the organizational meeting, much interest was expressed in medium-priced housing units for elderly. The Economic Opportunity Council has been providing the professional staff for the thirty-five units being planned by Warren Housing, Inc. for partial relief of the critical housing shortage in Warren borough. Director Brown indicated that the council would make its knowledge and experience in the field available to any non-profit corporation which would promote housing units here.

Donald Abraham has urged all Youngsville area residents to attend Monday's meeting.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

The doctor in Philadelphia who said walking a mile each day will keep the waistline down—and the life expectancy up—is one jump behind Dr. Paul Dudley White.

That jump is into the seat of a bicycle, where Dr. White apparently spends most of his time.

The good doctor is well into his 60's, but he still rides the two-wheeler around the block along the palm-lined streets of Florida. He's so devoted to the subject that he has been named national chairman of the month of May.

May, among other things, is American Bike Month. Dr. White is taking his chores seriously already, making such statements as "I'd like to put everyone on bikes—not just once in a while, but regularly—as a routine."

His campaign, conducted through the American Bicycle Institute (there are as many groups as there are National Something-or-Other Months), is gaining support. Endorsing him already are the American Medical Association, the American Heart Association, the National Education Association, the Second National Conference on Cardio-Vascular Disorders, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Optimists, Jaycees, Kiwanis Clubs, and the National Association for Making a Month Out of Everything.

This adds up to a pretty solid groundswell of opinion, so it's no wonder that there are 200 new bikeways in the nation's cities. The National Trails Bill now before Congress provides for 200,000 miles of bike paths and trails. The Bureau of Public Roads has approved a green and white Bike Route sign which can be used on any of these cyclefaires.

Maybe that's one key to the development of our area.

I could make reference to the obvious—our push for highways hasn't gotten that much support. But I think there's merit in the idea of a network of biking and hiking trails in this area. After all, Pittsburgh and Buffalo have four-lane roads, but they can't claim traffic-free bicycle rides or long walks through the woods.

SOCIAL Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

"LA BELLE AU BOIS DORMANT" was the delight of an audience of interested adults the other night. Sounds Parisian and very sophisticated doesn't it? Well, it was French, of course; but sophisticated? Hardly. Just thoroughly delightful. You see, these were Fifth Grade pupils of Jack Downs, performing an amazing French Puppet Show "Sleeping Beauty," under the direction of Paul Mutzabaugh, French Supervisor, for the Jefferson Street PTA. The entire production, puppets, staging, and all, was done by the youngsters, who concluded their demonstration of fluency in French with the entire group singing French songs. Reverting to the more mundane business at hand, the PTA installed the following officers for 1967-68: Co-presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Burchard; first vice president, Theodore Oachs; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Henry Bailey; secretary, Mrs. James Jordan; treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Stalnbrook. In charge of the ceremonies of installation was Dale Brown. It was announced that the annual ice cream social will be held on Thursday, May 11, from 3 p.m. until 8 p.m. under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Richard Pike and Mrs. John Panaritis. Mrs. Francis Masterson and mothers of the First Grade pupils were hostesses for the concluding social hour.

SOMETHING A LITTLE DIFFERENT for Golden Agers today—As guests of D. H. Lay, they will be taken on a tour of the Rouse Home. So, the word is, meet at the YWCA at 1:30—but eat your lunch at home—There will be a brief business meeting, and then a chartered bus trip out to Rouse Home, Youngsville, to see all the new improvements.

NOTE FOR SHEFFIELD-BARNES AREA—The Omega Class of the Barnes Methodist Church will hold its annual rummage sale in the church basement on the evening of MAY 24th and all day on MAY 25th, and not this week as reported in Friday's Sheffield Observer. So there's plenty of time to go through the family's wardrobe, along with your spring cleaning, and weed out what will no longer be worn, or the children have outgrown, and any other items you might have to donate to the sale.

CHANGE OF DATE: Tonight the Sugar Grove Pre-School Mothers Group is meeting at 8 o'clock, in the Elementary School Library. The program is a film entitled, "Fears of Children." Election of officers will also take place.

MINIATURES: The Academy of Friendship of Women of the Moose is meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Glen Mickelson. The Mickelson residence is at the top of Follett Run road, on the right.

Diamond Grange phoned in to say their Fish Supper will be on Friday the 28th, at Diamond Grange Hall in Tiona. Tickets at the door will be $1.25 for adults; 75 cents for children. Hours will be from 5 o'clock until 7. Men members of the grange will be the chefs, and the women will serve.

WOTM College Of Regents Electing New Officers Tomorrow

Officers and College of Regents will attend a meeting for the election of officers tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Yvonne Lee. At the last meeting of the organization, Senior Regent Lee announced that the workers dinner will be held on June 12 at 6:15 in the Mineral Well Restaurant. Those eligible will be notified.

All members who have been selling knives are to turn in their money at Chapter Night on May 10. Paring knives are being sold for 75 cents, and long slicing knives for $1. Any one wishing to purchase a knife, or knives, should contact Carrie Maeder at 723-9563. Also the WOTM is selling baked potato spikes at 6 for 75 cents.

Ritual Manuals are being sold for $1 and any member may buy one. Officers and chairmen will be given theirs. Mrs. Maeder will receive her star at the International Convention in Jacksonville, Florida, this June, and Marion Root will receive her College of Regents cap and gown at Mooseheart, Illinois, in June. Friendship rings will be received by Joyce Bell, Ida Wenzel and Peggy Barnes on May 7, in Hamburg, N.Y.

Members are reminded to make bus reservations for Mooseheart by May 1. After that all other Moose Lodges will be eligible to go on a "first come, first served" basis.

Gerry Mickelson filled the Academy of Friendship chair at the Franklin meeting honoring Grand Regent Grace Flickinger Day recently. Mrs. Grace Flickinger of Blairsville was appointed Grand Regent of WOTM at the International Conference of the Auxiliary of the Loyal Order of Moose in Chicago almost a year ago, June 16, 1966. She is now in charge of the executive functions and governing body of WOTM. WOTM comprises more than 220,000 members in 1,542 chapters in the United States and Canada.

For this special meeting in her honor, all officers and chairmen of the day at the Franklin meeting wore gold street length dresses and gold shoes, in keeping with the 50th anniversary of WOTM.

'Technical Education' Topic Presented at N. Warren PTA

"The Horizons of Technical Education" was the title of an interesting discussion of the vocational-technical school plans for Warren County presented to the North Warren PTA recently. Howard Thompson, assistant superintendent of schools for the county and Harold Landin, director of secondary education, explained the probable form vocational training might take and the courses which would probably be offered. They explained that in addition to classes as part of high school curriculum, an evening program for retraining or job betterment for post-high school years would definitely be offered.

During the business meeting, a slate of officers for the 1967-68 school year was presented by Mrs. Frank Happ, chairman of the nominating committee, and was voted in by the membership. They are as follows: Harold Waite, president, Edward Berger, vice-president, Mrs. H. R. Fisher Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Leon Allen, treasurer.

Mrs. Edward Lee, outgoing president, extended her thanks to all committee chairmen for their support and cooperation throughout the year.

Refreshments were served by first grade mothers led by Mrs. John Huey and Mrs. Robert Lundberg.

The earliest libraries in the colonial era of America were privately endowed.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: I'm shook. Recently I printed a letter from a Dallas golfer who wrote to say he wore his wife's girdle because it relieved his aching back and improved his posture. He added nonchalantly that he also wore his wife's nylon hose because he needed to hook the garters to something to keep his girdle down.

Shortly after that letter appeared I heard from another man whose luggage had been lost and he had no underwear. His wife gave him a pair of her bloomers, "just for the night." He liked them so well he never did go back to wearing shorts. That was in 1945 and he has been wearing ladies' bloomers ever since.

This past week I have received an avalanche of letters from virtually every state in the union. The mail attests to the fact that a startling number of men (most of them married and with families) thoroughly enjoy dressing up in women's clothes. I assure you these people are not putting me on. They are strictly for real. Here are some samples:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do you point an accusing finger at any man who happens to prefer some article of women's clothing?

Some men enjoy a soft, smooth fabric next to their skin. Somewhere along the line men got stuck with cotton underwear. I can assure you if men's silk shorts were not so expensive they would outsell cotton shorts by the carload. Shortly after I married, my wife was making a dress for herself. We are both the same height. She asked me to put on her dress so she could pin the hem properly. I liked the feel of the silk dress and asked her if she would make one for me to lounge in. Now I have several lounging dresses and they are much more comfortable than slacks and a T-shirt. I'm not a fairy and I resent the inference that any man who wears women's clothes is a little funny.—DYERSVILLE, IOWA

DEAR DY: My haberdashery expert tells me cotton shorts are plenty soft enough for anybody and that most men prefer cotton shorts to the sleazier fabrics. I would not try to change the mind of a guy who sits around in his wife's dresses, however, so enjoy yourself, Bub.

Unsured of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Breath Of Beauty

Bad breath is the ogre that can destroy all your efforts to be a beauty. It is a problem that troubles many, and letters like this come in by the dozen:

"I don't like to think I have bad breath but, no matter which mouthwash I use, I'm conscious that my breath isn't the greatest. P.S. I don't smoke. Help!"

There's no easy solution to this problem because bad breath may stem from several factors. Ask yourself some questions to find out just what your trouble is. Then, follow through with the right routine—your breath will be refreshing and your social acceptability will be a breeze.

1. Have you checked with your doctor lately? Frequently a stomach condition or run-down state may cause mouth odor. Your mouth, teeth and gums are among the first to signal ill health.

2. Are your teeth in excellent repair? A six-month dental examination is a must for everyone, but if you have a record of dental difficulties go more often.

3. Have you had your teeth cleaned lately? You may be a "food-packer" and need a cleaning every three months instead of the customary six.

4. Have you discovered the trick of cleansing your tongue each morning? Use your toothbrush or gently draw a girdle stay (the type used for boning) from the top to the tip of your tongue, cleansing off all foreign matter. Follow with a thorough rinsing and be prepared to be amazed at the good results.

5. Do you stick to your gums? They deserve special attention since frequently food particles lodged in the gums encourage the growth of bacteria. If your gums aren't the tightest and seem pale and spongy, give them extra care and massage each time you brush.

Request a useful birthday gift or save up for a device much like your dentist uses which sends out a pulsating stream of water and flushes the food particles out.

6. Are you devoted to dental floss? You should be! But use it gently and frequently. Another good dental "tool" is a plastic scraper, which removes soft tartar. (But, check your dentist on both!)

7. Are you brushing with the proper brush and dentifrice? The right brush is one that suits you best. Generally speaking, medium hard does an adequate job (too hard can tear, too soft is ineffectual). With dentifrice, it's not what you use, it's the way you use it. I know lovely teeth that have never been cleaned by anything other than inexpensive baking soda or salt. Don't overlook the convenient little purse-size brush in case which permits you the most beneficial brush-after-meal program (especially if you wear dentures or braces).

8. Do you give your teeth a sweet treat or treatment after dining? In any case, a good bet is a swallow of water. Roll it around the mouth, particularly after eating starchy or sugary foods which ferment causing both bad breath and possible tooth decay as well.

9. After spicy or strongly seasoned foods like garlic and onions, do you keep a stiff upper lip and grin and bear it? The happiest solution is to chew a piece of parsley. The chlorophyll helps to erase odors. Do carry sugarless mints or a purse-sized breath sweetener at all times for added insurance.

JUST FOR YOU: An apple a day keeps the doctor—and tooth decay—away. It's Nature's original tooth cleaner.

Chop chutney and heat it to serve as a sauce for broiled chicken or fish. Stir the chutney over very low heat (in a small saucepan or skillet) while you are heating it so it won't scorch — and have it warm rather than really hot.

Camp home owners are asked to take special note that Watson Grange No. 108 is sponsoring a community project of fire ponds to be located at equal distances along Route 337. ## GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
1557 St. The Chicago Tribune
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q 1—Both vulnerable as South you hold
AKQ103 93 A17642
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 N Pass 2 A Pass
2 A Pass 3 A J

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Merit to provide partner the opportunity to take appropriate action in light of his original take-out to the two level and your strong rebid the pass can be considered forcing.

Q 2—Neither vulnerable as South you hold
AKK65 N10 J63 AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
5 N Pass
What do you bid?
A—Six no trumps. For a preempt at this level partner can be assumed to possess a solid suit of at least eight and quite possibly nine cards in length. You consequently have the required 12 tricks for a slam but it might be vital to protect your king of hearts if he is being led into in case partner has a small double in that suit.

Q 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold
AKJ1074 N1864 K753
The bidding has proceeded:
East South
1 A Pass 2 NT Pass
What do you bid?
A—This hand has splendid defensive possibilities and may well produce a game in the best suit the partner may have a below average hand. The best way to portray this strength is by a take-out double.

Q 4—As South vulnerable, you hold
AK1075 N110 2 A1A5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 A Pass 2 NT Pass
What do you bid now?
A—Do not let partner announce a bid of a heart or a club. You would like to insist upon a game contract. If partner has a game contract for one of the major suits there should be a good after-noon cruise of the highway for this distribution. The suggested bid therefore is three hearts. A bid of only two hearts will very likely be passed by partner.

Q 5—As South vulnerable, you hold
AKQ865 J9 A143 AKQ8
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 A Pass 2 A Pass 3 A Pass
What do you bid now?
A—Despite your lack of a heart stopper, a bid of three no trumps is recommended. There is nothing to be gained by rebidding spades.

Q 6—As South vulnerable, you hold
AK84 J6 K1413 AK85
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 A Pass 1 A Pass 2 A Pass 2 A Pass
What action do you take?
A—Two spades. Partner has continued the bidding at a time when he could conveniently pass. His hand therefore must have certain merit. You have your values where they fit best and you should give partner one more chance. He will realize that you have only three spades because at your first opportunity you preferred clubs to spades.

Q 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold
AK73 N1063 J10 AKQ8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 A Pass 1 A Pass 2 A Pass 2 A Pass
What action do you take?
A—A strong, holding, emphasizing bid is in order. While there is no doubt that you have a game the hand may have other potentialities for partner's exact strength has not yet been determined. A jump in hearts is not suitable because the suit itself has not yet been properly tested. Spades should not be supported vigorously, with three trumps. So by the process of elimination, we choose three clubs, intending to take further action on the next round.

Q 8—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold
AK2 J542 AK972 AK10
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 A 2 N Pass
What action do you take?
A—Four heart partners at the table. A small bid should be an appropriate bid. It is at four hearts that the effort would be best.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—You can make unusual progress in many areas now. Get your mind clicking early, and in tune with present trends.
APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—A running start may or may not work; a well-chosen and understood one will. Be careful in dealings with the opposite sex, superiors and those who are unusually sensitive.
MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—A few barren moments or spots need not cause dismay. Too often impulse dictates when a thorough going-over of data and system would provide the answer.
JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Excellent chance for gaining ground in an old manner or style; also for showing your alertness in adapting the new of worth. Watch those loopholes!
JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—Do not dash headlong into this day no matter how much is expected of you or how much you wish to accomplish. There are "grey" areas to study well.
AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Attempt whatever you really understand and have sufficient reason to believe would work. But remember the needs of others involved.
SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—You could be faced with complicated delay if you let yourself slide. Your own experience plus the advice of others is a potent combination for success!
OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio)—The old saying, "keep your eye on the ball" should apply to all endeavors now. A tendency toward aggressiveness could lead you into trouble if you are not careful. Keep your wits about you.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—There are tendencies now toward impulsiveness and unnecessary bickering. Don't YOU yield to such inclinations. Control emotionalism. Make thoughtful decisions.
DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Planetary influences now stimulate your talents and your desire to achieve. Also, your intuition and practiced skill can help you to evaluate—and solve—problems more easily.
JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner. There are many opportunities for those who are well trained in their lines and who make good use of their knowledge.
FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—A tailor-made day for your fine versatility. You may face some "tight" situations, and others may vex, but if you remain serene, you can handle all well.

YOU BORN TODAY are an individualist but can, nevertheless, follow orders meticulously. You are unusually capable, self-reliant, persistent, responsible to a trust; usually an astute speculator. You like luxuries and will work hard to acquire them. You can accomplish the "impossible," and normally welcome challenges with zest. Many artists, writers, musicians, actors and professionals in the medical field have been Taurans. Birthdate of: Anthony Trollope, Eng. novelist, essayist.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

THE HYPNOTIC TRANCE

Hypnosis is not a mystical power. It takes place when the operator's directions, instructions, and suggestions are accepted without reservation. The hypnotic trance is a period of somnolence, in which the individual is somewhere between the waking and sleeping state. There is an increased concentration of the mind, relaxation of the body and an altered state of awareness. Some believe that hypnosis is evidence of man's powers when he is not blocking or limiting himself. Many remarkable and extraordinary feats are possible under hypnosis. Examples include Orientals walking on hot coals and a man suspended between two chairs with his weight supported by the heels and head.
Man responds to many oral and visual stimuli. Hypnosis usually is induced by monotonous and repetitious suggestions. Objects such as a spot on the wall or a moving watch may be used. Because hypnotic induction may be done by remote means, it never is televised.
The technique is useful in the treatment of many emotional and psychiatric states. It may help to control the suffering in those with cancer or other painful conditions. Hypnotists create an anesthetic effect useful in surgery, dentistry, and obstetrics. Delinquent habits may be altered. Its use for entertainment or by amateurs and quacks is attended by a greater danger than many people realize.
Misuse may precipitate emotional disorders. A depressed person may become suicidal. Hidden fears may return, and an existing disease worsen. Relieving "migraine headache" in a person who had a brain tumor is an example.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Dirty Air.

HEART AND SWIMMING
G.B.I. writes: I have a sound heart that acts up when I'm swimming. I'm afraid of a heart attack because I get extrasystoles, especially in deep water. Should I stop?
REPLY
Why torture yourself? If swimming in deep water makes your heart jump all over the place, why do it? After all, you are not a fish and other forms of exercise are available. Extrasystoles are caused most frequently by smoking or drinking too much coffee or tea.

CLUB DISCUSSION
Mrs. W.N.C. writes: Our club girls were discussing whether it is possible to have a venereal disease even tho a blood test and smear came out negative.
REPLY
Possible, but unlikely except during the early stages before the manifestations have had time to appear. Why not talk about something more pleasant?

BODY TEMPERATURE AND SMOKING
B.A. writes: Does cigarette smoking raise the body temperature?
REPLY
No. But smoking constricts the capillaries of the hands and feet and causes a slight lowering of the skin temperature.

GROUP SEASONAL
B.I. writes: Is croup a seasonal disease?
REPLY
Croup is more common during the winter months when respiratory infections are prevalent.

CHARTER AIRLINES STRONG

Amex, Over-Counter Prices Up

By DOUGLAS W. CRAY
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—On the American Stock Exchange and the over-the-counter market prices advanced last week.

The National Quotation Bureau's index of 35 industrial issues on the over-the-counter market closed on Friday at 289.88, an increase of 8.54 from the prior week. The best day-to-day increase was on Wednesday, when the index rose 3.15 points.

The American Stock Exchange's index of stock prices also improved last week, closing on Friday at $18.06, up 54 cents from last week. Volume totaled 22,019,160, compared with 16,117,110.

The charter airlines were among the strongest groups on the over-the-counter market. World Airways, Inc., soared 3 points. Its common stock will begin trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Trans International Airlines,

Inc., rose 3 1/4 in active trading. Recently Glenn A. Cramer, President, predicted that when its new 250-passenger jets go into service in 1969 the airline will have enough capacity to triple its 1965 sales and profits. The airline netted $3.8 million on sales of $22.1 million in 1965.

WEEK IN FINANCE

Stock Averages Reach New Peaks

By THOMAS E. MULLANEY
N.Y. Times Financial Editor
(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK—A new bullishness seemed to be developing in the stock market last week. And all the major stock averages were reaching peaks for the year. Wall Street expectations have undergone a drastic revision toward optimism.

The Dow-Jones industrial average, which had lagged behind the broader-based indexes, finally broke through to new highs on Thursday. It gained more than 15 points.

Since the start of the year, the Dow-Jones index of 30 industrial stocks has risen from 785 to the 880 area—a rise of 12 per cent. The Times combined average of 50 stocks has progressed from 446 to the 517 area, up 16 per cent.

Over the same span the New York Stock Exchange composite index, which covers all the stocks listed on the market, has gone up about 16 per cent, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index has advanced 14.3 per cent.

The principal interest is now clearly centered in stocks, but the bond market was finally getting over the effects of the recent cut in the discount rate. For a week bond prices had been sliding, with interest rates rising, until Wednesday a modest price recovery set in.

The reversal resulted partly from large purchases of Treasury bills by the Federal Reserve. Dealers became convinced that rates would remain relatively stable through this week while awaiting the treasury's plans for refunding $9.7 billion of 4.5 per cent securities that mature next month.

Meanwhile the stock market was occupying center stage with its obvious far-sightedness. It was not focusing on the nearby pause in the economy nor on the current batch of poor corporate earnings, but was instead perceiving a brisk business upturn in the latter part of 1967.

Perhaps its sights are a shade too rosy. Many business observers feel it's a bit early to tell whether the economy's slowdown this year has already run its course.

The odds seem to suggest that it has. Economic statistics seem to suggest it, too. And bankers are confident they'll be confronted with heavy credit demands again before the year-end.

But that doesn't mean that an upswing is already assured. There might well be several months of stability before any real upturn is evident. April's figures should give a better line on the state of the economy.

"The worst is over for this year," said Walter Heller, former head of the Council of Economic Advisers.

It is true, of course, that most recent economic statistics have been encouraging, but one month doesn't make a trend.

Figures for March might have been affected unduly by the early Easter and by comparison with the first two months of this year, which had been depressed by adverse weather.

Nevertheless last month's 3 per cent upturn in retail sales, its 0.3 per cent rise in industrial production, the slight easing in unemployment, the big slowdown in inventory accumulation, the moderate 1.7 per cent rise in housing starts and the accelerated $3.4 billion gain in personal income have spread a good measure of optimism in business.

Of all those figures, though, the key one—and the most controversial—is that involving business inventories.

The Commerce Department's report indicated that inventory accumulation during the first quarter of this year was down to $5.5 billion on an annual basis after the huge $16.4 billion buildup during the final three months of 1966.

Those who take heart from that reported dramatic turnaround believe the major depressing influence in the economy has passed.

They are also impressed by the fact that final demand for goods and services, other than inventories, rose by $16 billion in the latest quarter, largely through increased government outlays, heavier consumer buying for non-durable goods and services and by the end of the depression in housing.

The other major controversial issue at the moment is the Administration's proposal for a 6 per cent surtax on corporate and personal income taxes starting July 1.

Many businessmen are opposed to it and most believe it will not be enacted as of July 1, but Gardner Ackley, the President's chief economic adviser, twice this week reiterated his stand in favor of it.

Ackley said he felt July 1 was still "the best date" for the surtax to take effect, but "the timing," he said "will depend on the evidence that the economy is improving."

"Later this year and into 1968," he said, "the economy is in danger of the kind of inflation we had last year."

He also maintained that frequent tax changes were necessary to keep the economy prosperous and growing—a view that ran into sharp criticism from Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

The first 298 industrial companies to report on first-quarter operations showed an aggregate decline of almost 5 per cent in net profits compared with the corresponding period in 1966. More than one-third of those reporting so far, 113 companies, showed declines in earnings this year, while 33, or slightly more than one-fourth of the total, managed to achieve record profits this year.

Perhaps the most dramatic report of the week was the severe drop in profits by the Chrysler Corporation. Earnings were down 71 per cent to $18.2 million from $62.5 million in the similar period of 1966. Despite the sharp drop in earnings to 40 cents a share, the company maintained its 50-cent dividend, heartening for the stock market.

Other major companies that reported lower earnings for the first quarter included Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Caterpillar, Goodrich, Libbey-Owens-Ford, American Cyanamid, Allis-Chalmers, Columbia Broadcasting, National Dairy, Johns-Manville, Budd, International Minerals & Chemical and Pfizer.

The profit picture wasn't completely bleak, however. Xerox showed a 26 per cent gain to a record level. R.C.A. had an 8 per cent rise, also to a new peak. Alcoa reported record quarterly earnings and raised its dividend.

Gains were also shown by companies such as Reynolds Metals, Kaiser Aluminum, Phelps Dodge, Minnesota Mining, Sinclair and Gillette.

MOM'S GOT A REPUTATION SINCE SHE GOT HER NEW FLAME.

She has a reputation as one of the best cooks in the neighborhood. And she owes it all to her handsome, easy-going new flame—a modern Gas range.

Mom, the chef, is always dropping names like Burner-with-a-Brain, and Oven-with-a-Mind and automatic rotisserie. And names like broiled filet en croute, spinach souffle, quiche Lorraine and ham mousse.

In fact, Mom's something of a show-off with her "Programmed Gas Cooking." She just puts the food into the oven, sets the time and temperature, and then goes about other business with studied indifference toward her cooking. She can afford a great show of confidence because her Gas oven will automatically stop cooking at precisely the correct moment and keep her dinner piping hot, without overcooking or drying out, until everyone is ready to eat.

Needless to say, the whole family is happy with Mom's new flame. And Mom is happy with her new reputation.
